These kits generate enough power to charge a phone or tablet and assembling them is a great group exercise.

By completing one of the workshops you will learn the following:

- Basic electrical skills
- How to construct portable solar PV panels
- How to test and understand your panel
- How to connect components to enable phone or tablet charging
- About the energy dilemma in the UK and possible future solutions

All materials will be provided on the day.

We can arrange our workshops around your requirements, catering to both groups and individuals.
